

20 17

Indigenous Research Methodology Masterclass

Expand your capabilities as an Indigenous postgraduate.

The National Indigenous Research and Knowledges Network (NIRAKN) is continuing the 2017 capacity building calendar with the Indigenous Research Methodology Masterclass, September 7 - 8, hosted at QUT.

Tailored for Indigenous PhD and Masters by Research postgraduate students in the midst of their candidature, these workshops will be led by Distinguished Professor Aileen Moreton-Robinson (QUT), who has taught Indigenous Research Methodologies since 2006.

Registration and participation is free of charge. NIRAKN will also provide Brisbane return flights and accommodation, however participants will need to cover ground transport costs and meals outside of the daily program.

Spaces are limited and applications will be subject to review by the NIRAKN teaching team. We encourage you to register your interest by providing your details on the registration page.

Only open to Indigenous Postgraduate students (PhD or Masters by Research) enrolled in an Australian university.

Thursday, September 7 - Friday, September 8

Two full day workshops.

Indigenous Research & Engagement Unit, Room B309

*QUT Kelvin Grove, corner Musk Ave & Victoria Park Road
Brisbane, Queensland*

Registrations close Friday, August 18.

Register

via Eventbrite

Australian Government
Australian Research Council

